A NEW CLUB

Organized for the Purpose of Studying Social Questions—Its Personnel.
It has been whispered to a REVIEWER that a number of young and beautiful gentlemen connected with different capacities with the various enterprises of this city, have organized a "Social Ethic" club, and propose to perfect themselves in the arts that charm, the language that soothes, and the delightful if "airy nothings" that win hearts—more particularly feminine hearts. The club promises to be a large and prominent one, but space can be spared only to a brief description of the chairman of the different committees appointed to date.
Jason Walker, chairman of the committee on "The best way to win the heart and silence the tongue of female book agents," is a well formed, handsomely gaited dandy, a well known expert in the business for which he has been selected and is generally acknowledged to be the handsomest man in the county.
Harry Kennedy, chairman of the committee on "The best way to propose," is a lovely blondy, with a willowy form, and easy gliding motion in walking. He is the right man in the right place, and any statement he may make in regard to the matter can be considered official. He is universally conceded to be the handsomest man in the county.
Harry Shimer, chairman of the committee on "How to crook the elbow" when offering your arm to a young lady, is a lovely brunette, of genial manners, and captivating eyes and is fully posted on the subject. It is a matter of general repute that he is the handsomest man in the county.
Teddy O'Brien, chairman of the committee on the "safest road to a woman's heart," is one of those entrancing mediums between the blonde and brunette types of loveliness, and is a reliable man for the place to which he has been assigned. All persons agree that he is the handsomest man in the county.
Dennis White, chairman of the committee on "After acceptance, what?" is a brunette of the type, which, if the possessor be of the gentler sex, causes man to commit "that fatal" for her sake. He is said to know all about what to do after acceptance, and there is not a dissenting opinion to the verdict that he is the handsomest man in the county. It should always be borne in mind, however, that his name is Dennis.
William Alvey, Jr., "handsome Billy," is chairman of the committee having in charge the questions "Are the first love suitors to start the fire in the kitchen stoves after marriage? And if not, whose duty is it to strike the match?" is a fascinating brunette, whose splendid shape and winning ways are "open sesame" to every heart. He is by long odds the handsomest man in the county.
Clyde Lewis, chairman of the committee on "Is it etiquette to kiss your husband oftener than 60 times a minute during your occasional visits?" is a ravishing blonde is very popular, but it is feared doesn't care a cuss whether it is etiquette or not, so long as she is willing. He will always be willing also, and it is feared the report of his committee will be badly biased. At a vote taken "at large" he was unanimously voted to be the handsomest man in the county.
John Daily, Jr., chairman of the committee on "The most fitting way to sing sonnets," is a blonde, beautiful as a lion and graceful as a gazelle. His voice always suggests the location of a musical institute in his throat, and his melodious voice has been known to make a clock stop and listen. No one disputes that he is the handsomest man in the county.
Sam in the River.
Barton Leforge's body is still in the Sangamon river, and cannot be located. All day yesterday 10 boats and about 30 men were in constant use dragging the river as fast they could. They are going down the river a foot at the time, searching thoroughly, but as yet with no success. The search will be prosecuted to-day, and it is understood that if unsuccessful, a professional diver will be sent from Chicago, when it is hoped the body will be recovered.
The river is high and constantly rising. Yesterday it was about two feet higher than on the day previous, and this makes the progress of the work much slower than it would otherwise be.
The opinion is growing stronger that the body is at the bottom of the dam, and considering previous experiences in recovering bodies from the river at this point, the opinion seems well founded.
Four or five men in boats were on the river until midnight watching for the body. They thought it might possibly come to the surface. As the night wore on, however, they became discouraged and left the dark river to mutmur alone over its secret.
Severely Burned.
The fire department was called yesterday evening to 429 North Water street, but upon arriving there found their services not needed, the alarm having been caused by the burning of a gasoline stove. Mrs. E. R. Eldridge who occupied the house, had her hands severely burned in carrying the stove from the kitchen to the sink in an adjoining room and the services of a physician were needed to relieve her sufferings. Dr. W. B. Huestler was called and speedily gave the suffering woman care, but her hands will be of little use to her for several days yet.
How He Stands.
A report has been circulated that I am for high license. It is my belief that $500 is high enough, and while I was in the past opposed to license in these parts of the city, it is the wish of the people that license be granted in this city, and as in other parts of the city, a license I do not intend to have my voice added to the wishes of my constituents.

MILKMAIDS IN CONVENTION.

A charming Entertainment by the Bright Girls of the Y. W. C. T. U.
The "Interstate Milkmaids Convention" was held last night at the Y. W. C. T. U. hall. Besides the 35 or 40 delegates there were present about 400 spectators, and they enjoyed greatly the business on a woman's convention that was presented by the Y. W. C. T. U. These young ladies were the delegates: Lily Canary, Kitty Seeger, Sallie McColl, Dollie Aldridge, Lela Ross, Lizzie Ebert, Ella Wilson, M. Murphy, Nellie Gher, May McKenzie, Sadie Roby, Ella Andrews, Celeste Hoffman, Marie Davis, Clara Hoffman, Maude Simon, J. Nicholson, Maude Aikin, Kate Simon, and Maude Canary.
After the audience had assembled the delegates marched in, attired in the traditional milkmaid costume and each carrying a three-legged stool in her hands and milk pail on her head. They were all very pretty, and a great many of the spectators were given an opportunity to attend the convention, if that would bring them any nearer the bright faces and sparkling eyes. After the delegates had found places, Miss Lily Canary was chosen chairman, Miss Lily Segar was elected treasurer, and Miss Sallie McColl was elected secretary. Miss May McKenzie was apparently secretary when the delegates came together. The proceedings from the first were marked with considerable commotion, and no motion was made by less than six of the maids. Apparently it was with great difficulty that all refrained from talking at the same time. The chairman called the meeting to order with a cow bell and then proceeded to make an impromptu address that covered a dozen fellows of footsies. She referred to Longfellow's mention of the snow-white heifer, on which is her heroine, Priscilla, rode, and to the thrilling tale about the cow of the acrobatic turn of mind in the world and pathetic melodies of Mother Goose, as evidence that ancient and modern writers had discovered the importance of the quadruped whose merits they were there to discuss.
These preliminaries through with, the convention proceeded to consider some very weighty matters. Several songs were interpreted. Some of them were pathetic, and the whole convention burst into tears, regular "hot, bleeding, and scalding tears," that are read about in novels. A letter from "Mrs. President" of the White House was read. A communication from Mayor Kanaw was also presented. He expressed regret that the street car strike had prevented him from attending, but he inclosed instead a check for $1,000, which the convention was to do with as it chose. A motion to spend $50 a one for chocolate creams, peanuts and Yucatan, was rushed through in a hurry, and then while a delegate had gone out to get these necessities to all well-regulated conventions, the disposition of the remainder of the money was taken up. One reckless maid who rashly suggested a home for ancient and decrepit milkmaids, was summarily set down with a report for dancing to suggest that they ever would be.
After sending the usual letters of congratulation, sympathy and greeting, making customary addresses, a long set of resolutions was adopted. In them sundry references were made to "Cremations," "Cowboys," and other pertinent subjects. Finally a cow made out of a barrel, and a hat rack ornament, was brought in and introduced as the famous O'Leary cow of Chicago, whose frisky hoof did so much damage to that city. That closed the proceedings. The pails were auctioned off and delegates and spectators went up stairs where ice cream, cake, coffee and hard boiled eggs were served by the milkmaids. A fancy work table and a confectionary stand did good business. Almost everything was sold out and the young ladies had the satisfaction of going home after a very pleasant and profitable entertainment.
It is likely that the convention will be repeated next week.

STRAY SCRAPS.

Blue Macon farmers are shipping potatoes to New York City.
The little baby of Frank Arnold on East Prairie street, is very sick.
Miss Lillian Irwin is now in charge of the Woman's Exchange as chief clerk.
Two children in the Pope family, at 538 North Church street, are sick with diphtheria.
The "Land of Nod" will be given at the opera house on May 2d, for the Christmas club's benefit.
The Woman's Exchange made the weekly statement yesterday with depositors. The sum of $75 was paid out.
A resident on North Jackson street wishes us to say that the crossings out there are in bad shape and should be cleaned.
Alderman Moran yesterday received from Philadelphia a national charter for the Decatur branch of the A. O. U. of which he is president.
Jerome B. Hatch, a former resident of this city, died at Galveston, Texas, recently in the 52d year of his age. Deceased was a brother of the late Squire M. K. Hatch.
Easter comes on Sunday—Decatur Republic. Those people who feared that Easter might come on Monday or Friday will now be permitted to breathe easier.
The question may properly be asked if the Wilber County company has the proper right to play "A Night Off" under the title of "A Night in Rome," or any where else. "A Night Off" is copyrighted by Augustin Daly.
The farewell appearance of the Wilber County company will be made to-day. At 8:30 "A Night in Rome" will give a beautiful "A Night Off" is copyrighted by Augustin Daly.
Good Friday services were held yesterday morning at 10 at the German Lutheran church. They were repeated last night at 7 at the German school house in the north-east part of the city.
John H. Miller and Peter Luch have taken in charge the task of soliciting aid for the Metropolitan sufferers, and will make a thorough canvass of the city. So far they have met with fair success, but the citizens should see that they meet with great success. Give what you can spare; it will be "broad cast upon the waters."
The street commissioner has got quite a respectable force of men at work cleaning the streets, and each man is provided with a number 4 shovel, to do good work with which it is necessary to have steam attachments. Men's hands alone cannot successfully operate young steam shovels; so say the men.
J. Abbott, who lives at 718 West King street, was throwing a line into the river yesterday, with a theory, looking for the body of Barton Leforge. The hooks caught in Mr. Abbott's hand and badly tore one finger. One hook was broken off and had to be pushed through. He will be disabled for several days.
Mrs. Elizabeth Price, the oldest person in Central Illinois, died at her home in Normal yesterday. She was born on Dec. 20, 1790, and was in her 90th year. Her 90th birthday was celebrated by her children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren at the home of her daughter, Mrs. K. H. Fell, in Normal.
W. H. Bumble has been doing considerable talking since his return from Washington, but he only tells a very few that he didn't see Clarkson, or Wauwau, or anybody but a crossroads politician named Rowell. He did see Congressman Cannon on the street, and had a breathless exchange of compliments, while that gentleman was rushing off to see some one else.

TRACK AND TRAIN.

A. O. Hopkins is in the city.
A. Stevens went East yesterday.
Conductor Finch, of the Illinois Central, is laying off.
C. C. engine 130 is sick a-bed, with bronchial troubles.
L. D. & W. Lineman McGlory is in the city straightening wires.
Supervisor Reed, of the Illinois Central, was in the city yesterday.
John Daly, Jr., is still able to lay off because of his "mashed toe."
Conductor Bob Stephens, of the T. H. & P., is sick at Terre Haute.
Engineer Pinson, of engine 203, can't get a light to St. Louis, yesterday.
Ex-Conductor Billy Rindley, of the Illinois Central, is visiting Decatur friends.
Harry Kennedy, Illinois Central operator, leaves to-day for a brief visit with Vandalla relatives.
Otto Schilling, trainmaster of the P. D. & E., was in the city yesterday, and went from here to Pekin.
General Manager I. H. Burgoon, of the T. H. & P., has gone to Fremont, O., to spend Easter with his family.
Ed Brown, former foreman of the boiler department of the Wabash shops, but now of Lima, O., is in the city, visiting his mother.
Some of the gang planks at the depot need repairing or replacing. Does the Illinois Central management think it can stand the great expense?
D. A. Perry, agent at Linton, is making the wires ring with the refrain, "I'm a pa; I'm a pa; she's a girl, she's a girl." All right—many returns to you!
That building in course of erection, north of the Wabash freight house, is not the new union depot, as many visitors suppose. It is only an implement storage room, as mentioned in yesterday's Review.
A special chair car filled with Springfield citizens, came in on the Wabash last night and left for Indianapolis over the L. D. & W. They go to attend the street-paving exhibition going on at that place.
Red Hanes, who has been connected with the Wabash railroad for the past 10 years, and agent of the original Urbana over-shoe, it has been running into that city, resigned, to take effect the first of this month. He will remain in Urbana and will take a rest before taking up any other kind of business.

ABOUT OUR NEIGHBORS.

Decatur is to have a boating and fishing club.
A tariff reform club has been organized at Bloomington.
A prohibition state convention will be held at Bloomington in May. Macon county will be entitled to 20 delegates.
The Abolitionary, which was started as an experiment, and cost about $10,000, has been torn down and the machinery stored away.
Two boys ran away from the People's Minded Institute at Hancock, Thursday. They are about 8 years of age, have light hair, and wear jeans clothes. The police of this city have been notified.
E. Schmitt, of Centerville, will retire from the saloon business this month. He has 6,000 tons of ice in store at Madison, Wis., and options on 14,000 tons more. He figures his profits at $3,000.
At a meeting of Bloomington citizens to talk about organizing a mutual insurance company, a committee was appointed to perfect plans. It was estimated that $15,000 a year are paid to insurance companies there, and not 10 per cent. received in losses.
